

Acknowledgements

The production of this report could not have been accomplished without the generous assistance of many agencies, community organizations and individuals who collaborated in selecting the contents of this report, provided ongoing consultation to the staff, and drafted and edited portions of this report.

The Byrne Committee extends very special thanks to Joli Sandoz, the principal researcher and author for the first phase of this report's development. Other staff from the Department of Community, Trade and Economic Development who made significant contributions to the report were Carol Owens, project director and writer; Visudha de los Santos, research analyst, writer and project coordination; Jennifer Scrafford, research analyst and writer; Jill Severen, editor; Cecilia Gardener, layout design; and Lori Salzer and Gail Mitchell who provided staff support.

The Byrne Committee gratefully acknowledge the following:

The Criminal Justice Plan Steering Committee members who put in long hours over many months to help with the report's development:

The Honorable Mike Doherty, Clallam County Commissioner; The Honorable Tari Eitzen, Spokane Superior Court; Larry Erickson, Washington Association of Sheriffs and Police Chiefs; Anne Fiala, Department of Corrections; Kate Greenquist, Office of US Attorney, Western District of Washington; Christie Hedman, Washington Defender Association; Gerald Horne, Pierce County Prosecuting Attorney; Deputy Chief Steve Jewell, Washington State Patrol; Paul Perz, Washington State, Community Trade & Economic Development; Ken Stark, Washington State Department of Social and Health Services; Nan Stoops, Washington State Coalition Against Domestic Violence; and Carol Webster, Governor's Juvenile Justice Advisory Committee.

All of the state and local government staff, criminal justice system experts, advocates and community members who provided guidance and support during the research and editing of this report are too numerous to list, but include the following:
